

Release date:

April 30, 2021

Pro audio forum changes name to Gearspace.com

Longtime pro audio engineering forum Gearsutz.com has completed its name change to Gearspace.com to incorporate a more professional and inclusive approach. Launched in April, the website Gearspace.com is fully operational and, like its predecessor, serves as a worldwide forum for discussions and answers about professional audio gear of all kinds, including Hear Technologies products.

In a public message earlier this year, the UK-based forum's founder Jules Standen said the name change was in response to a petition asking for something more professional and all-inclusive, appropriate for businesses, church production members, and students. The new name allows the site and its participants to concentrate on audio without distractions, he said.

You can find users' thoughts on pro audio equipment, including Hear Technologies pro audio equipment, at the forum's new site: www.gearspace.com.

For more about Hear Technologies' professional audio equipment, specializing in personal monitoring systems, visit Hear Technologies.

###